FELLOWSHIPS AND FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

7. Women and Public Policy Program Fellowship, Harvard University Kennedy School of Government

The Women and Public Policy Program at Harvard University Kennedy School of Government is now accepting fellowship applications for 2013-2014. These non-stipendiary fellowships are offered to scholars conducting gender-related research in one of WAPPP's four focal areas: economic opportunity, political participation, health, and education. We welcome applications from both academics and practitioner scholars who have expertise in gender within their field of study or work.

The Women and Public Policy Program Fellows are expected to participate actively in WAPPP seminars and to attend and present papers at other seminars relevant to their interests. Research fellows will also be expected to complete a book, monograph, scholarly article or other significant publication during their period of residence.

Application Deadline: February 15, 2013

For more information, visit: <http://www.hks.harvard.edu/centers/wapp/for-scholars/fellowship-program>

8. Post-Doctoral Fellow, Programme for the Study of International Governance, The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva, Switzerland

The Programme for the Study of International Governance is pleased to open applications for a 12-month, fully funded post-doctoral position (1 September 2013 - 31 August 2014). The successful applicant will have the opportunity to develop a research project on international governance, and to work alongside senior scholars, policy practitioners, and graduate students from around the world conducting research on international governance in Geneva.

Applicants must have recently obtained a PhD (defended or to defend their thesis between August 2009 and September 2013) in a relevant discipline (including Political Science, International Relations, International Law, International Economics, International History, Global Anthropology) and should demonstrate that they have specialised their past research on an aspect of international governance. Applicants may be from any country, and if successful, they must process their applications for the appropriate visa, and arrange for their own housing. Because we are trying to expand our global networks, applications will not be accepted from Graduate Institute alumni.

The visiting scholar will also be invited to explore potential for longer-term collaboration with the Programme for the Study of International Governance, by developing a longer-term research project proposal and securing funding for its execution.

Application Deadline: February 15, 2013

For more information, visit: graduateinstitute.ch

9. PhD Research Studentships, School of Politics, International Studies and Philosophy, Queen's University Belfast

The School of Politics, International Studies and Philosophy at Queen's University Belfast is delighted to announce six PhD Research Studentships to fund students commencing a research degree in September 2013. Each studentship will cover approved tuition fees and maintenance payments for three years. The studentships are available to UK and other EU and EEA nationals. Specific eligibility criteria apply.

Of the six studentships, two will be awarded for research projects in any area or areas of politics, international studies or philosophy where the School has distinctive research strengths and four will be awarded for specific research projects.

16. Programmes Specialist: Knowledge Management, The African Women's Development Fund, Accra, Ghana

As a learning organisation, the generation of knowledge, its management and dissemination is critical to the work of AWDF. Knowledge produced in various forms within AWDF is important to the organisation's mandate to raise the profile and visibility of African women, the African Women's Movement, the organisation itself and most importantly, the issues it seeks to address. AWDF also disseminates knowledge to showcase the work of its grantees, to raise awareness of the issues they seek to address, to influence decision-making in Africa and internationally and to mobilise greater public support for women's rights in Africa. In addition, it generates and disseminates information, knowledge and learning to strengthen grantee organisational effectiveness.

The post holder will be responsible for coordinating AWDF's knowledge management function, ensuring a sound evidence base of the impact of AWDF's work, as well as the ability to showcase this work and the issues the organisation seeks to address, to broad publics both internal and external to AWDF.

Application Deadline: February 28, 2013

For more information, visit: <http://www.awdf.org/>

17. Gender Program Advisor, CARE, Atlanta, GA

CARE is seeking a talented Gender Program Advisor. As part of a dynamic team dedicated to gender and empowerment programming, this individual will foster lasting change in country offices, regional management units', and headquarters' technical teams' strategies and practices to promote girls' and women's leadership and empowerment, and the engagement of men and boys to advance gender equality. S/he provides technical guidance and leadership to initiatives aiming to prevent or respond to Gender Based Violence. S/he promotes such changes through consultation, negotiation, influencing, and direct support to CARE staff including Deputy Regional Directors for Program Quality, Assistant Country Directors for Program, project managers and headquarters staff.

Application Deadline: Open until filled

For more information, visit: <http://awid.org/>

18. Research Associate/Senior Research Associate, Institute for Women's Policy Research (IWPR), Washington, D.C.

The IWPR seeks a full-time Ph.D. researcher to conduct quantitative studies on women and the labor market, the costs and benefits of job quality policies such as paid sick and family leave, postsecondary education and job training access and benefits, health benefits of workplace flexibility, and other topics related to IWPR's mission (potentially including health economics, poverty, work/life balance, and retirement security). Job duties will include research design, data analysis, writing reports and other policy documents, public speaking, and contributing to grant proposals.

Ideal candidates will possess a Ph.D. in economics or a related social science discipline, experience analyzing large data sets, strong quantitative skills, ability to write accessibly (in a nonacademic style), and demonstrated interest in policy issues affecting women. Applied research, project management, STATA and/or SIPP, CPS, ACS experience a plus. Position will be filled at the Research Associate or Senior Research Associate level depending on experience.

CALLS FOR PAPERS, PROPOSALS, AND SUBMISSIONS

19. Call for Articles: SUR - International Journal on Human Rights, organized by Conectas Human Rights, Article 19 and Fundar

In its 18th issue, SUR intends to promote a debate on the relationship between information and human rights. Does access to information contribute to warrant human rights? Does publicizing information about atrocities committed in the past, for example, contribute to avoid them in the present? Or does it only polarize society, contributing to new human rights violations? Does naming and shaming States, businesses and other groups that commit human rights violations help combat them? Does the way in which the media portrait human rights violations contribute to perpetuate the scenarios in which they occur or does it help mobilize people and organizations to combat them? Is there a right to communication? Can Internet tools help avoid human rights violations?

Those are some of the questions that SUR would like to see discussed in its number 18. We invite scholars and practitioners to submit articles that may contribute to this debate, either by taking stock of local and international access to information policies and mechanisms of accountability or by examining state and non-state initiatives to use information to combat human rights violations. We also welcome critical accounts of experiences where lack of transparency or information misuse contributed to cause or perpetuate violations. We are especially interested in articles reflecting on the practice of governmental bodies, civil society organizations and/or the media - and that can thus serve to inform new policies and programs.

Maximum length: 70,000 characters (including footnotes); Footnotes must be concise (the rules for citation may be found at <http://www.surjournal.org/rules12.php>); Submissions must include:

- A short biography of the author (maximum 50 words);
- An abstract (maximum 150 words);
- Keywords for bibliographic classification;

- The date in which the article was written.

Application Deadline: March 1, 2013

For more information, visit: www.surjournal.org

20. Call for Papers: Reducing Urban Poverty, Fourth Annual Urban Poverty Paper Competition

To encourage a new generation of urban policy makers and promote early career research, USAID, the International Housing Coalition (IHC), World Bank, Woodrow Wilson Center's Comparative Urban Studies Project (CUSP), and Cities Alliance are co-sponsoring a fourth annual paper competition. The competition seeks abstracts for a paper competition on urban poverty in the developing world. Winning papers will be published and selected authors will present their work in a policy workshop to be held at the Wilson Center in Washington, D.C. in November, 2013. The grand prize winner will also receive $1000. Papers should be policy-based and solutions-oriented and should critically examine existing projects and/or propose new strategies for tackling issues related to urban poverty.

Abstract Deadline: March 15, 2013

For more information, visit: <http://www.makingcitieswork.org/>

21. Call for Submissions: Elimination of Prejudice Video Contest

Since 2011, The Elimination of Prejudice has hosted an annual video contest, receiving entries from five countries on three continents. The contest is open to any individual to submit a three minute video based on the theme selected for that year. After all submissions have been received, a panel of judges selects three to five finalists for a public worldwide vote. For the next two to three months, anyone may cast a vote daily to help select the winner.

Help us promote a better understanding between people and create long lasting community change. Be imaginative! Be vocal! Be rewarded for your creative contribution to the Eliminate Prejudice Video Contest. Submit your 3-minute video on how bullying relates to events in society or in your own life today to the contest website.

Application Deadline: March 15, 2013

For more information, visit: <http://www.kintera.org/>

22. Sussex International Theory Prize: Centre for Advanced International Theory, School of Global Studies, University of Sussex

The Centre for Advanced International Theory invites nominations for the 2013 Sussex International Theory Prize for the best piece of research in International Relations published in book or article form in 2012. The recipient will be invited to present their research in a Public Lecture at the University of Sussex and will also receive £150 worth of books from Cambridge University Press and a two-year print and online subscription to International Theory.

The work should be in International Relations, broadly conceived - including sub-fields, and must have been published in 2012: judged by copyright date. The award is made annually on the basis of nominations by individuals, publishers and peers.

Nominations should take the form of a statement of less than 200 words on why the work could be considered the best piece of innovative theoretical research in International Relations, from the previous year. Nominators (including publishers) are limited to one submission. If the nomination is for an article, the published version should be attached as a PDF document to the email nomination. If the nomination is for a book, it is the nominator's responsibility to contact the publisher and request that five copies of the title be sent by the nomination deadline.

Application Deadline: April 2, 2013

23. Book Award: Journal of Middle East Women's Studies, Association for Middle East Women's Studies

The JMEWS Book Award is offered annually to a scholar within these fields for a solo-authored book. Books published (copyrighted) in 2012 will be considered for the 2013 award. The competition is open only to books published in English. The winner will receive a $1,000 cash award and a plaque. Books that do not receive the award but are considered exceptional will receive honorable mentions.

The JMEWS Book Award is given to the author whose work is judged to provide the most significant and potentially influential contribution to Middle East women's or gender studies. Books of exceptional courage and potential impact beyond the field will be given special consideration.

The JMEWS Book Award Committee strongly encourages submission of nominations for the competition. Nominations must come from one or more individuals (not organizations or publishers) in the form of a letter of nomination verifying the impact of the particular work on the field of Middle East women's or gender studies. Self-nomination is not permitted, and works submitted without an accompanying letter of nomination will not be considered. Signed copies of the nomination letter as well as five copies of each nominated book should be sent to the Award Committee members.

Application Deadline: May 1, 2013

For more information, visit: www.jmews.org

24. Graduate Student Paper Prize: Journal of Middle East Women's Studies, Association for Middle East Women's Studies

The prize will be awarded to the individual whose work is judged to provide the most significant and potentially influential contribution to Middle East women's or gender studies. Papers of exceptional courage and potential impact beyond the field will be given special consideration. The winner will receive a $500 cash award and a plaque. The winner will also be invited to submit the paper for publication in JMEWS.

The JMEWS Graduate Student Paper Prize is offered annually to a graduate student who has solo-authored a paper in these fields. The competition is open only to papers written in English. Papers must be between 7,000 - 10,000 words, including a 150-word abstract and a reference list. Papers must be submitted as a Word document or pdf file. Submissions should include a title page that lists the author's name, institution, and program of study and the manuscript's title.

25. Documentary: The Role of Sanitation in Girl Child Education, Heals

Heals is a Non-profit organization registered under the Indian Government Societies Act 21 of 1860. A vibrant civil society organization, Heals aims to safeguard health, environment, education and livelihood to promote sustainable development of society.

Through the medium of documentary, film and art, Heals is trying to create awareness among the masses about girl child education, menstrual hygiene, sanitation and safe drinking water and trying to relate how girl child education is directly suffering due to bad sanitation facilities, unsafe drinking water and lack of knowledge to obtain the same.

To view the documentary, visit: <https://vimeo.com/58771979>

For more information, visit: <http://heals.blogspot.in/>

26. Documentary: The Invisible War, Directed by Kirby Dick

The Invisible War is a groundbreaking investigative documentary about one of our country's most shameful and best kept secrets: the epidemic of rape within our US military. Today, a female soldier in Iraq and Afghanistan is more likely to be raped by a fellow soldier than killed by enemy fire with the number of assaults in the last decade alone in the hundreds of thousands.

Focusing on the powerfully emotional stories of several young women, the film reveals the systemic cover up of the crimes against them and follows their struggles to rebuild their lives and fight for justice. The Invisible War features hard-hitting interviews with high-ranking military officials and members of Congress that reveal the perfect storm conditions that exist for rape in the military, its history of cover-up, and what can be done to bring about much needed change.

27. Report: "Gender Sensitive Response and Recovery: An Overview," Oxfam

The number and complexity of hazards and disasters are increasing rapidly and there is ample evidence that women and girls are often more vulnerable to disasters than men and boys. This collection of Programme Insights papers considers the progress made and the challenges we still face in humanitarian and disaster risk reduction interventions, in responding adequately to the needs of all affected people. By sharing lessons learned, the papers can have value beyond their own contexts and will help to make future work more effective.

For the full report, visit: <http://policy-practice.oxfam.org.uk/>

28. Report: "Addressing Gender-Based Violence in Pregnancy: A Clinic and Community Approach in Rural Kenya," J.M. Turan, et al.

This program concept note outlines a strategy for providing GBV screening and enhanced referral services to pregnant women in a rural, primary care setting. The approach builds clinic and community capacity to assist GBV survivors and draws on lay health workers to link patients to existing support structures outside the health facility.

For the full report, visit: <http://www.faces-kenya.org/>

29. Report: "From Survivors to Defenders: Women Confronting Violence in Mexico, Honduras & Guatemala," Just Associates

The report from this fact-finding delegation documents numerous cases of violence against women and women activists - including disappearances, murder and rape- and examines the efforts of women to address the increased violence, and how militarization and security policies are contributing to the increased violence.

For the full report, visit: <http://www.justassociates.org/>

30. Report: "Sexual Violence in Armed Conflicts: Convergence with Torture," Évelyne Josse, ACAT

This article explores wartime sexual violence and its possible convergences with torture, and reflects on the values associated with sexuality and the taboos that govern it in different cultures.
